“ Mr. Bill was a good man. Glad I got to know him just a little bit. I was fascinated by his stories from his Seabee days and appreciated my time with him.

“ *Jill,
They say that every person passes away twice. Once when your heart stops beating and finally when the last living person speaks your name. Every now and then I say my parents and my sisters name out loud and it really does help keep them alive for me and helps me remember them with great joy instead of sorrow.*
